A Product Review

Calling all transcript-intimidated parents! . . .

Aren't transcripts mystifying? You know that someday your young people will need these credentials, but don't they sound overwhelming? And too important to mess up? Maybe you should just ship your child off to "school" and get a transcript that way. Don't you wish someone else would just figure it out for you?

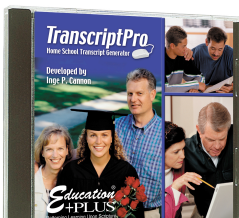

Inge Cannon has done just about everything possible to demystify the transcript process and make it home school friendly. Hot off the presses is Transcript Boot Camp on DVD! No longer do you have to go to Inge at a Boot Camp in a distant city—there is Inge right in front of you in the comfort of your own home! She talks you through the whole big challenge and in her clear, concise style she shrinks the job down to a task that ordinary parents can handle with ease! No longer will you need to entertain thoughts of enrolling your young people in a Christian or government school just to get a decent transcript. You can do this!

The Transcript Boot Camp package comes with a 76-page syllabus and 2 DVDs containing 4 hours of instruction. The easy-to-use handbook is crammed with helpful articles and lots of step-by-step examples of the topics Inge discusses on the DVDs. Each page also has a place for your own notes as you go along.

What do the DVD sessions cover? Session 1 explores who should grant a diploma, what is accreditation, why graduation is important, the forms and format you should use, and ways to present your child's academic history to the best advantage. Session 2 offers detailed advice about assigning grades and Carnegie units of credit, along with practical record keeping approaches with textbook equivalency and time logs. In Session 3, Inge covers specific curriculum tips on a subject-by-subject basis and explains how to calculate class rank, grade point averages, and weighted grades. Session 4 finishes the presentation with information about recording extracurricular activities, test scores, privileged information, vital attachments, portfolios, and résumés. Everything you need to learn to create a credible transcript is right here for you!

Inge's approach is comprehensive, practical, and flexible. You, the home-schooling parent, ultimately customize your young adult's transcript content with Inge's help. Happily, you can review the syllabus and DVDs as many times as you wish without having to leave the house. Is that convenient or what!

What was the point of creating this program? In Inge's words, "We want [home-schooling families] to know that there is room for the variety they need to provide in their children's training, and that lots more things can and should be counted on the transcript than simply the "quad fours." ['Quad fours' refers to 4 units each of English, math, science, and history.] We also want parents to know how do-able this is."

While Transcript Boot Camp is a stand-alone program, it dovetails smoothly with TranscriptPro, Inge's computer program that 'builds' an actual transcript form from your input. So what are you waiting on?! Eliminate the guesswork, and use these cutting-edge tools to make your home school graduate look completely professional.
